2008 AWARD HONOREE:

Elmore "Dutch" Leonard was born in New Orleans in 1927. His family later moved to Detroit. After World War II, he wrote Western stories on the side, but in 1961 his writing career started full time, since then he has written more than 40 novels. His well-received novels include Friday Deadly, Killshot, Maximum Bob and, of course his Hollywood book Get Shorty. In 1991 he wrote Ten Rules of Writing where he featured his axiom "I try to leave out the part that people tend to skip." Dutch is the recipient of the prestigious Cartier's Diamond Dagger Award in England and the Raymond Chandler Award. He and his wife, Christine, reside in Michigan. He has five children, twelve grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Susan Cheever is the author of numerous works of fiction and nonfiction including American Bloom, My Name is Bloom, Note Found in a Bottle, As Good as I Could Be, Home Before Dark and Trevels. She lives in New York City.

Michael Dirda is a well-known writer for The Washington Post Book World and weekly outline columnist for "Dirda on Books" at www.washingtonpost.com. He has won numerous honors and awards including an honorary Doctorate of Letters at Washington College, the Pulitzer Prize for Distinguished Criticism, as well as a Fulbright Fellowship to France. He is the author of the memoir An Open Book and of four collections of essays: Readings, Bound to Please, Book by Book, and, most recently, Classics for Pleasurs.

Eileen McGuckian is a co-founder and past Executive Director of Peeters' F. Scott Fitzgerald's Rockville: A Guide to Rockville: Portland in the 1920's and Rockville: Portrait of a City.

Judy Hruz is editor of The Rockville Gazette and co-author of Treason in the White House, a political thriller. She worked at the York Dispatch in York, Pa., for 10 years before joining The Gazette in 1988. She was a regular panelist and frequent moderator on The Gazette's cable television public affairs program.

Laura Lippman was a reporter for 20 years, including 12 years at The Baltimore Sun. She began writing novels while working fulltime and published seven books about "accidental PI" Tess Monaghan before leaving daily journalism in 2001. Her work has been awarded the Edgar, the Anthony, the Agatha, the Shamus, the Nero Wolfe, Gunshoe and Barry awards. She was the first-ever recipient of the Mayor's Prize for Literary Excellence and the first genre writer recognized as author of the Year by the Maryland Library Association.

George Pilecnas was born in Washington, D.C., in 1957. He worked as a line cook, dishwasher, bartender and a woman's shoe salesman before publishing his first novel in 1992. He is the author of 15 novels set in and around Washington, D.C., and is the recipient of the Raymond Chandler award in Italy, the Falcon award in Japan and the Grand Prix Du Roman Noir in France. He is an award-winning essayist who has written for The New York Times, The Washington Post, GQ, Esquire, Sight and Sound, Uncut, Mjog and numerous other publications.

Stacy Barton's debut collection of short stories, Surviving Nashville, was released in 2007. Her stories and poetry have appeared in a variety of literary magazines and her fifth stage play, an adaptation of Dylan Thomas' A Child's Christmas in Wales, premiered in Orlando last year. In addition, Stacy is the author of a children's picture book and an animated short film. She is currently a freelance scriptwriter for the Disney Company.
