

Upcoming Area Meetings

The City of Rockville Development Review Process requires that neighborhood area meetings be conducted for projects subject to certain types of development applications. Depending upon the type of application, the Development Review Process requires two area meetings: a Pre-application Area Meetings (PAM) and, a Post-application Area Meeting. The Pre-application Area Meeting is intended to introduce the proposed project to the neighborhood, and the Post-application Area Meeting allows for a neighborhood review of what was submitted to the City for processing. City staff attends the Post-application Area Meeting to respond to questions about the application review process and timing.
